Dear Colleagues,

Since its inception, International Journal of Pharmamedix India has attracted a large number of scientific researchers around the globe. During last year, a good number of research papers have been published in the larger interest of scientific community, aimed for promoting good scientific work in the field of pharmaceutical sciences. We encouraged to see the response of the scientists as continuous inflow of their research work to be published in this journal and assure to all, that we are not going to sit and relax with the sense of complacency having launched it with great success rather my effort will continue to overall improvement of the quality and acceptability of the International Journal of Pharmamedix India, also to increase the circulation of this journal to each and every corner of academics in the country. I must congratulate all the members associated with this journal for their hard work in shaping the journal into a well recognized publication, and this definitely deserves commendation. On the other hand, it also reminds me about our sense of responsibility towards achieving more international recognition, especially in term of being indexed in international indexing system such as PubMed Central, Scopus, Thomson Reuters, etc. However, some progress has been made such as adaptation of its system as to meet the uniform requirements of international data system. By this way, the International journal of Pharmamedix India can be detected in Google Scholars and some other database like NewJour, IndianScience, BASE, Pubzone, DOAJ, Socolar, Arastirmax and many more. I am hopeful that with the endless efforts and continuous support from researchers, we shall be able to strive hard in bringing novel scientific research work to our readers. International journal of Pharmamedix India now arrived on the knowledge publishing highway. We are working-out recognition or reward to the authors and referees on the basis of the articles popularity and quality. Please do keep checking the statistics. Suggestions for the reward/ recognition are welcome.

Wishing you all "A very Happy and Prosperous 2014," on behalf of entire editorial team.
